Gauche called both of them as Reszurre seemed to be waking up.
New Arm
Hah... Hah...
In the end, Adam's operation went perfectly. He was able to precisely grasp the position of the nerves and bones with his magic, and the limbs that he chose for Reszurre didn't look off on her whatsoever. Adam was also muttering something incomprehensible to himself and giggling while looking at her limbs... but let's pretend like I didn't see that...
I'm... fine... The lightness... feels weird...
...Is it... over... now...?
You can't feel your limbs yet, can you? They're probably going to hurt a lot for a little while...
relief...
Yeah, you're safe now. Adam says all of the corrosion is now gone.
Reszurre will apparently need some recovery exercises for the nerves and mana channels to become fully operational. Adam said he couldn't be bothered to babysit her, and I guess that's his way of saying that this is my concern now. Still, for successfully removing the source of the corrosion and replacing her limbs, Adam's skills are the real deal.
